AA MOVIES

Oh, pain indeed my story is to tell,
 Yet silence pain, and all ways miserable.
 When first the immortals learned the taste of wrath,
 And strife rose, and between them wound its path,
 Many would cast out Kronos from his throne,
 That Zeus forsooth might reign, but many an one
 Swore that no Zeus should e'er be lord of heaven.
 Wise was I, but no force to me was given
 To move the brood Titanic, born of Earth
 And Sky. All crooked plans they turned to mirth
 In their great hearts, and thought full easily
 By strength to master all. But much to me
 And oftimes had my mystic mother told
 Themis and Gaia, titles manifold
 Of one eternal form—what end must fall:
 That in this warfare not by strength at all,
 Only by thought, the conquerors should prevail.
 I spoke, I showed my brethren all the tale,
 But they nor heard my words nor looked at me.
 Best then I deemed it, if such things must be,
 That I with Zeus, led by my mother's light,
 Should stand, will linked with will, in armed fight;
 And by my counsels now the deep and cold
 Abyss of darkness covereth Kronos old,
 With all his peoples. Such the gift I brought
 To Zeus; and this the answer he hath wrought!

ZEUS

God of Lightning

Zeus is the king of the gods in Greek mythology.

He is the god of the sky, lightning, thunder, law, order, and justice. He is the son of the Titans Cronus and Rhea, and is married to his sister Hera. He is the father of many gods and goddesses, including Athena, Apollo, and Artemis.

The symbols associated with Zeus include the lightning bolt, the eagle, the oak tree, the scepter, the aegis, the bull, and the throne.
